

On the differentiability of the convolution

Pablo Jiménez Rodríguez

Universidad de Valladolid

There are several classic results that convince us that the convolution operator is a smoothening one, in the sense that the properties of the resulting function are better than those of the parent functions. In this poster we present two differentiable functions whose convolution fails to be differentiable in certain points.